Trees and hedges

People in urban areas may have disputes about trees or hedges on their neighbour's land. The Trees \(Disputes Between Neighbours\) Act 2006 provides a process for resolving disputes between neighbours about trees and hedges. A person who wishes to have a tree or hedge on the neighbour's land pruned or removed, or who wishes to obtain compensation for damage to their property caused by a tree on a neighbour's land, may apply to the Land and Environment Court to obtain these orders. The application is allocated to Class 2 of the Court's jurisdiction.
